Clarification on Black Helmets

In a previous email we announced that LMHA is implementing standardized equipment for A Division players and black helmets would be the first piece of equipment in the transition. We apologize for any misunderstanding, this does not apply to goalies but only to players. If you have any questions please let us know. The information is below with this clarification.

Important information for Rep Players

Starting in the 2015/16 season LMHA is implementing standardized equipment for A Division players. As hockey gear is expensive and changing a players entire gear would be costly we will gradually roll out the changes over the course of a few seasons. The ultimate goal is to have all LMHA A Division players look the same and be recognizable as LMHA players. The first change will be to black helmets.

Effective for the 2015/16 season all REP rostered players (this does not apply to goalies) are mandated to wear black helmets. LMHA pant shells and black gloves are preferred, however no coach can mandate a specific glove color or any other uniform color other than black helmets.

Black Helmets are not mandatory for rep tryouts but we want to make anyone considering rep tryouts aware of the expectation if your players makes a rep team.

Coaching applications for the 2015/16 season

As in any other year, the priority in any coaching decision will be to hire the most qualified and suitable applicant who's coaching philosophy best supports that of the association. Successful applicants, whether paid or unpaid, will be expected to understand the associations policies and procedures, follow the associations fair ice policy as well as the process around selection of players during tryouts.

The applications we are accepting are:

1. A Division non paid for (Atom/Peewee/Bantam/Midget A2-4)
2. C Division Coaches \(Initiation - Midget\)
